Achievements

Aladdin grew up in his native Sudan, and went to the Republic of Egypt, where he settled and continued his academic journey and obtained a degree in engineering. He worked for a short period in Egypt, then went to Turkey, carrying his scientific achievements, in an effort to invest them. From here, the stage of self-development, wealth and potentials began. In the first phase, he bought a sanitary ware factory in Izmir, in cooperation with Turkish businesswoman "Shengul Hanim", and after two years he sold the factory to make a bumper profit.

With the advancement of the days, Aladdin's wealth grew and a wide network of relations with Turkish businessmen such as "Mustafa Ozloua", "Ahmed Nejdat" and "Muhammad Almaz" was opened in front of him. After that, they went to Japan and Korea and succeeded there in restarting about 40 factories in cooperation with Ukrainian experts and engineers, and then distributing them later in African countries.

After this series of successes, the Sudanese businessman "Aladdin" returned to his motherland, and established the largest animal production farm in the Al-Abyadh region in the Sudanese state of Kordofan. For him, this project is considered a step of the ladder of trade and entrepreneurship, where he achieved important successes in this Upper Egypt and became a pioneer in the field of livestock of all kinds. He was not satisfied with this number of achievements, but he traveled to more than 73 countries and achieved important successes at the industrial and commercial levels.

Stories of myth and imagination can be embodied in reality in the world of entrepreneurship, where perseverance, seriousness, love of work, good reputation, wise management, ambition, intelligence and familiarity come together, and all of them are embodied in the person of a man who traveled around the world in search of opportunities available to seize, and proceeded rapidly forward and made progress in the areas of life, excelling In the field of investments and became famous at all levels ...

He was equal with businessmen in the profession, but he differed in qualities, as he was concerned with excellent communication, self-investment and pursuing resources that form the development of an understanding of business, and he proved his competence in challenging circumstances and overcoming difficulties to reach the top in the world of business and wealth, thus joining the lists of the rich in his country, and then To the richest Arabs and Africa.
